Developing a nation is synonymous to developing classroom teachers. With this philosophical base CCYM's Hashu Advani College of Special Education (<https://www.hashuadvanismarak.org/hacse/>) has been undertaking various activities related to human resource development in the field of special education for almost 2 decades. The prime focus of the activities of the college is empowering school education for children with disabilities. Two of the programs that CCYM's HACSE offers are B.Ed (Special Education - Hearing Impairment) and B.Ed (Special Education - Learning Disability) which are affiliated to University of Mumbai and are recognized by Rehabilitation Council of India (RCI). CCYM's HACSE is the first college of special education in India to be accredited by NAAC (Grade 'B+'). It is also one of the very few colleges of special education which has been listed under the category of 2 (f) 12 (B+) of the University Grant Commission (UGC).

I appreciate the efforts taken for a collaborative venture between CCYM's Hashu Advani College of Special Education and SOPAN's Suvidya College of Special Education from the period 2015 till 2021. We had this collaboration for B.Ed Special Education program Semester one for 2 courses - B7- Introduction to sensory disabilities and B8- Introduction to neurodevelopment disabilities. I acknowledge the expertise which both the colleges had shared through their faculties in specific disability specialization. It has been a great learning experiences for students with an emphasis on knowledge and skill development.

Best wishes.
